

FOWLER IN FIGHT FOR 17-CENT MILK

With Dr. William C. Fowler, District Health Officer, joining hands with the Fair Price Committee on the local milk situation, Washington sees the beginning of a second fight by the local health officials to keep the price of milk down.

Dr. Fowler believes 17 cents is the highest price that should be charged for milk during the coming season. He has won an initial victory by obtaining the good will of local dairymen. At a meeting in the Health Office last night, milk distributors showed every disposition to co-operate with Dr. Fowler in his efforts.

17 Cents Fair Price.

The distributors agreed that 17 cents was a fair price to charge. The next step is yet to get the dairy farmers to agree on a price of 40 cents a gallon as a maximum charge for milk sent into Washington. The present charge is 35 cents, and farmers are current this will advance to 40 cents. This will necessarily mean that milk distributors will be forced to sell milk at a price higher than 17 cents a quart to make a fair profit.

A conference with the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers' Association is scheduled for tomorrow morning in Dr. Fowler's office. At this conference Dr. Fowler will ask the co-operation of the dairy and farmers.

Clarence R. Wilson, chairman of the Fair Price Committee, attended the meeting in Dr. Fowler's office last night. Mr. Wilson announced he would leave the milk price problem entirely in Dr. Fowler's hands.

A second meeting with local dairymen will be held Saturday, and Dr. Fowler will outline his plans for keeping the milk price down.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk
Purgative With Calomel, the Purified and Refined Calomel
Tablets that are Nausealess, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess calomel tablet called Calotabs, and which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time, with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is in original balance, you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.

WOMEN SUFFER MOST IN HOT WEATHER

Men Do Not Know What Constipation Means
As a Rule.

Women are bothered more than men with inactive bowels and liver. They suffer especially in hot weather when lazy weather makes lazy livers and particularly at certain periods, and at such a time or any other time it is dangerous to be taking huge doses of blasting and upsetting cathartics and purgatives.

Instead of a big dose take a tiny dose at intervals of an hour or so and thus gauge the dose and economy of results without "blasting." Ask the druggist for a 25c bottle of E-Z Tablets. 100 Tablets. Take one any time of the day and watch the tiny little chocolate covered E-Z Tablet bring relief. Take another a little later and perhaps another at bedtime and you will never realize you have taken them. They work so gently, thoroughly, satisfactorily. Best of all you need not wait until night to get relief from raging headache, dizzy, weak spells or kindred troubles. E-Z Tablets, 25c. Purses or pocket size, 10c. at People's Drug Store and all good druggists.

Spurious Checks Paid For Gifts That Fiance Sent Her

MRS. RILEY M. DOUGLAS.

The courtship of Lieutenant Riley M. Douglas, U. S. A., brought about conditions which have landed him in the city prison in San Francisco on a charge of cashing worthless checks. Two of the charges were brought by florists. They claim to have accepted worthless paper in exchange for flowers which they sent to Douglas' fiancee. On July 22 Douglas married a beautiful young woman. They spent a short honeymoon and then Douglas sailed with his outfit for Siberia on the steamer Logan. Meantime complaints about worthless checks began coming to the police.

PRINT CRAFTSMEN WILL MEET HERE

The national organization of printing house craftsmen will hold its annual meeting in Washington next year, as a result of an invitation approved at the first banquet of the Washington club of the organization last night at the Columbia Country Club.

More than a hundred members and guests heard an address by Earl B. Morgan, manager of the employment department of the Curtis Publishing Company, on the relation of the foreman to employer and employee.

Dan T. Chisholm, deputy public printer, president of the Washington club, was toastmaster.

Among those who spoke were James L. Wilmoth, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; Perry R. Long, president National Association of Printing House Craftsmen; Charles Crane, president Washington Typothetae; Edgar D. Shaw, publisher, and Earl Godwin, of The Washington Times, and Charles Jacobson, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Music was by the Bureau Band. USES OF "LINGERIE?" JUDGE DID NOT CARE TO KNOW

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 24.—The trial table looked like a lingerie department of a Parisian shop.

Mrs. Kirk Bishop, testifying against her former maid, Estelle Thomas, on a charge of larceny, offered to explain the uses of the various garments.

"No," ordered Judge Hadden, blushing at the sight. "Take it away. Prisoner fined $15 and costs."

ONLY 8 IN EVERY 1,000 KNOW THE LORD'S PRAYER

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—There are only eight persons in every thousand in the State of Massachusetts who know the Lord's Prayer or the Ten Commandments, according to a survey made by the international world movement of the churches.

According to the survey made in New York, Massachusetts is ahead in the number of those who have heard of the Lord's Prayer or the Ten Commandments.

In New York the proportion is large of those who never heard of these two spiritual agencies.

WOOD PLAYS PART IN COST OF LIVING

In figuring out your monthly grocery bills you find "that things have gone up" and in any mental battle with the high cost of living you almost always confine your struggle to food. Go back of food a step and you will find many things that increase the cost of the food you eat, although you cannot eat those things, says Charles Lathrop Pack, president, American Forestry Association. The chief item of the list is wood.

In fact, wood is one of the chief reasons for the high cost of living and the American Forestry Association calls attention to this with some startling figures. For example the box in which your berries or peaches are displayed at market costs about three times what it did in "the good old days." The barrel in which your flour found its way to the grocer has gone up in price. The paper in which your meat is wrapped is "away up." None of these things can be put through your digestive apparatus with any degree of success but the consumer pays his share in the price of the berries, the flour, the peaches or the meat.

There is scarcely a commodity that is not shipped or handled in a wood container of some sort. To say nothing of home consumption, the United States was exporting about three and a half billion board feet of lumber every year before the war.

War Exhausted Supply.

Then the war called for wood. It went into temporary structures of every description, such as camps, hospitals, recreation huts, and the like. We must come up with a sharp turn on the lumber question. A national forest policy must be adopted in this country, or we face economic suicide. The American Forestry Association asks for the views of the lumbermen, timberland owners, and foresters on this greatest of our reconstruction problems in order that a definite policy may be arrived at.

We have just fought and won the fight to save us from imperial aggression, but the fight to save us from economic ruin is just ahead of us. Are we going to let the sacrifice of our heroes go for naught? What of the future in an economic sense? The situation is just this:

The original forest area of the United States was 550 million acres. There now remains in virgin timber about 250 million acres, or one-fourth of the original.

200 Million Acres.

Our total acreage of forest and cut-over lands is about 500 million acres. One hundred million acres of this is waste land which produces nothing, and 180 million acres more contain more or less second growth. A large percentage of this second-growth timber is inferior quality.

The new growth of timber is not more than one-third of the amount which is being used or destroyed every year.

There is plenty of food in that last paragraph, but it is food for thought. What of our home building program when we realize that the center of our lumber industry is fast moving to the Pacific coast? What of our home building program when we realize that New England is no longer self-supporting in lumber and that the lake States, once our greatest producers of lumber, are now importers of it from other States? This means long hauls and high freight rates which the home builder must pay. The time to build a home is now with without a national forest policy I do not believe cheaper lumber can be predicted.

The forests of France, millions of acres of which are now in ruins, kept the Hun from reaching Paris. Other vast acreages had to be cut down for war purposes. Civilization can thank France for having a forest policy of more than a hundred years standing. Her forests answered the call of war when war came. Had the war come fifteen years later we would have been pressed to meet the lumber program. Let us heed the call of the forests before it is too late.

LOVE LETTER IN HUSBAND'S POCKET, BRIDE KILLS SELF

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Jack Powers, a bride of but one month, ended her life by drinking poison at her home, following her discovery of a letter in her husband's pocket from a former sweetheart, who had not heard of his marriage.

Mrs. Powers met her husband as he came home from work, told him what she had just done, and died in his arms a few minutes later. A note written before the deed said she did not wish to stand in the way of his happiness.

JAMAICA GINGER BLAMED FOR INCREASE OF DRUNKS

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The elimination of arrests for drunkenness which prohibition enthusiasts predicted would follow the official banishment of booze, has not yet materialized, especially in some cities and towns in this State. In Wakefield, for instance, there have been more cases of drunkenness since July 1 than before the big drought, and in Newton the arrests for the same offense last month just doubled those of July. Jamaica ginger seems to be the popular substitute in Wakefield and the police are planning to start a drive against the sale of "Jaket."

BRITISH OPPRESSION AIDS SINN FEIN LOAN

DUBUIN, Sept. 24.—"The more suppression, the more money," is the claim of Sinn Fein leaders as a result of the British government's campaign against the Sinn Fein loan.

It is reported that the Sinn Fein leaders are organizing a house-to-house canvass all over Ireland to secure contributions to the cause. Large sums of money "already are rolling in," according to the Sinn Feiners.
